19. Regarding claim 25 –

Stefik discloses the portable media device of claim 1, wherein the controller is configured to assemble a transfer file comprising an encryption key for decrypting encrypted digital content, to encrypt the transfer file with an encryption key received from a second portable media device, and to cause the encrypted transfer file to be transmitted wirelessly to the second portable media device (col 35 ln 1-29).

20. Regarding claim 26 –

Stefik discloses the portable media device of claim 1, wherein the controller is configured to change a license status identifier associated with a particular digital content from unlicensed to licensed in response to a determination that a content identifier associated with the particular digital content matches a content identifier stored in the memory and corresponding to a previously licensed digital content file (col 31 ln 5 – 22).

21. Regarding claim 27 –

Stefik discloses the portable media device of claim 1, wherein the controller is configured to transmit a user identifier assigned to the portable media device to a license manager after each transmission of digital content information from the portable media device to one or more other devices (col 35 ln 1-29).

22. Regarding claim 28 –

Stefik discloses the portable media device of claim 1, wherein the meta-data in the transfer file is encrypted with an encryption key transmitted by the third party device and received by the portable media device (col 31 ln 62 – col 32 ln 18).

23. Regarding claim 29 –

Stefik discloses the portable media device of claim 1, wherein the transfer file includes an encrypted copy of the particular digital content (col 35 ln 12-29).
